

Gene Kalb

Gene and his wife Linda Pollitz have lived in Bedford since 1992. They have one daughter, Mary, who recently graduated from Hamilton College. Gene is a publisher, publishing a weekly newsletter aimed at high school counselors. He's also written newsletters in federal procurement areas (think fencing, asbestos abatement, fire control). He's even dabbled as an importer, importing catnip and cat treats from around the world for his entrepreneurial business "The Catnip Trading Company."

As a huge consumer of news, it was a natural fit for Gene to become a contributor to The Bedford Citizen, introducing a new feature called Bedford Explained.

Gene received a BA in Economics from the Colorado College, where he also played baseball. His claim to fame was playing baseball at a Division I Hockey school.
