

Elizabeth Hacala

Elizabeth joined The Bedford Citizen as Operations Manager in January of 2019 after serving as Community Editor and before that as a reporter for The Bedford Citizen. She left employment with the Citizen to continue her work as an event coordinator.

Elizabeth began her career in the software industry and worked in that field for fifteen years. In 2003 she left the software world behind and began a career in the non-profit industry serving in both management and operations roles.

Elizabeth raised her family in Bedford, served as a soccer coach for many years and is currently a member of Trustees for the Bedford Free Public Library and was a member of the Bedford Community Preservation Committee when that committee was initially established.

Elizabeth believes strongly in citizen involvement in government and is glad to play a part in bringing The Bedford Citizen to the residents in Bedford fulfilling its commitment to localize, high quality news about all things Bedford.
